

Where: Taos County

Project: Taos County Administrative/Judicial Complex

Type of Project: PPRF Building and Infrastructure

Project Description: In 2008, the County closed on two loans with the New Mexico Finance Authority for $34,028,254. The proceeds of these loans were to finance the costs associated with the land purchase for and planning, design, and construction of a new administrative building, courthouse and correction complex. The Complex is 137,753 square feet total and consists of three linked two-story buildings. The complex was designed to reflect the pueblo and territorial architectural traditions of New Mexico. The County received a state appropriation in 2008 for $200,000 as well as $15,000,000 from USDA to complete the project.

Where: Town of Taos

Project: Alexander Gusdorf Eco Park

Type of Project: PPRF Infrastructure

Project Description: In 2009, the Town closed on a loan for $2,213,469 with the New Mexico Finance Authority. The Town used the proceeds to construct Phase 1 of the Alexander Gusdorf Eco Park. Phase 1 included a FIFA-regulation soccer field, lighting, grandstands, restrooms, adjacent playgrounds and a scoreboard. The Park was constructed with environmentally sensitive field turf, solar lighting and water storage. As all phases are completed, the Town plans to market the Park as a high-altitude athletic training facility. The Town also received four state appropriations totaling $300,000 that helped complete Phase I of this innovative Park.
